The Future of Aquatics.

The New York Spirit of the Times, in an article on the above subject, concludes that aquatic sports are rapidly gaining in the affections of the people, despite the shameful trickery and knavery of many of its professional supporters. It then proceeds to inveigh against what it terms the "pernicious effect of the stakeboat system," as illustrated in the late match at Newburg, and says:

"Let the boat-clubs of the country take this matter in hand, and by a general convention or congress of respectable boating men, make rules and regulations for the future guidance of all championship matches, which will preclude the possibility of such infamous results as attended the last two matches for the belt. Let the course be fixed for all time at Elysian Fields, or such other place as may be agreed upon. Let the course be a straight five miles, with no turn, and all boats, steamers and other crafts which accompany the race be kept in the rear of the contestants. Above all, let the arrangements and police supervision of the race be in the hands of some aquatic association of high character, whose good name will be a guaranty to the public that they will see a fair race, and not be robbed or murdered in seeing it."

In most of these suggestions all honorable boating-men will concur. But the suggestion of a straight-away five-mile course is by no means a cure for the evil complained of. Take for instance the practice on the English waters, where the straight five-mile course is the rule. In all his late races on the Thames, the ex-champion rower, Chambers, has been made the victim of his opponents, who ran him down with steam tugs whenever he showed in the advance, crowding him to the shores, and once or twice nearly running over him. There can be no rules adopted that will prevent these outrages, for where the friends of a contestant are the most numerous they will find a way to harrass his opponent, should the latter prove to be the better man. Had Brown accepted Hamill's proposition for two buoy-boats, each to turn his own, there could have been no foul at Newburg, and what the Times now complains of as a "pernicious system" would have been found to be fair and just. In all future matches for the championship, and there is a prospect there will soon be another, let there be two buoy-boats, and there will be no danger of a recurrence of such acts as that performed at Newburg.

Individuality in Religion.

The Gospel was never designed to be un-Bibled and made into lettered catalogues of musts and must nots. "The letter killeth—the spirit giveth life." The restraints of religion do not lie along the Christian's pathway as so many roseless thorns to pierce and pain us at every step. Christianity does not require us to be forever looking after the faults and failures of others, in order that we may know exactly what things not to do. It is not a list of uneasy negatives. It is not a system arranged to push or drive by rearward forces. No man, since grace and truth were revealed in Jesus Christ, was ever scolded or scared any nearer heaven. The thunder of Sinai threatened and made men tremble; but there is another mount, though not so high and dark and awful, whose summit held a cross, and he who was lifted up thereon draws all men unto Him! The blood of Calvary is greater than the lightning of Sinai. Henceforth love is mightier than precept. Henceforth religious life is not so much a form as a service—a service which is the highest liberty because it is emancipation in Christ Jesus who makes his followers free indeed.

We are not obliged to pass on in our discipleship with book in hand, or mortal confessor in sight, reading a ceremony, or listening to a sound, or ruminating on the published sins of other people, else we should commit new ones ourselves so rapidly and unexpectedly that the most orthodox creed-arranger would become bewildered in the attempt to classify them. The religion of Christ does not annoy us with mere formal technicalities. There are no chronometer-guaged exactions to goad us to duty as a miserly creditor's constables dun a poor debtor for dues. No books of faith and service outside the Bible are worthy the permanence of stereotype plates to be printed from. No true man who recognizes his own individual accountability for deeds done in the body (not for words pronounced or unpronounced from the creed)—no true man can live in these grand republican years with any ecclesiasticism ahold of him, drilling and driving him as a machine. The Scriptures of Divine Truth do not require that my soul's worship shall be a strict duplicate of the worship of somebody else's soul. Neither is my work to be estimated by the number of chips and shavings at the bench of the robuster brother who has double the muscle that God has given to me.

Christianity gets deeper into a man than his clothes or his skin. It does a nobler thing to a man than bow and bend and halt and turn and shove him hither and thither in the crooked grooves of some blunderer who lived in the dim ages long before the wood of the cross began to grow. It has a grander mission than merely to take charge of the seen and heard of a man; it lodges deep in the inmost soul, and works out from that center, until the world not only sees and hears, but knows and feels, that he "has been with Jesus and learned of Him."

I may subscribe to a system of rules, and be as exact in my observance of them as a clock is in ticking its swinging monotonies all day long and all night through; and, just like the clock, be only running down the while. The Gospel is a marvel, in its freedom from all non-essential ectarianisms which any mimic of a man might observe to the very shadow of a letter without being a spark the brighter or a degree the better for his trouble. It is time the church had grown out of the childhood ages of the world—time that she waked up in the new morning this side the long night of ritualistic shades and symbols to the light and liberty of the Saviour come and risen. The Christian system, simple but sublime, infused by the impulses of the promised Spirit of all Truth, lifts men out of deep worn channels, and places them on elevations of light and glory from whence vast and beautiful horizons sweep around, beaming and glowing with living workers for God and man. There is growth from minority to manhood in the Gospel, and equal suffrage for all and for ever.

LATE NEWS ITEMS.

Owing to a disagreeable taste in the water in the Tombs at Boston, a Cochituate branch pipe leading thereto was opened, and there were found no less than ten dead or dying eels, varying in length from eight inches to two feet, closely wedged together in the pipe.

One of the largest spice mills in this country was burned at Wilmington, Del., on the 10th inst. The loss is very large. The supposed origin of the fire is very curious. A nail run through one of the grinding machines into a trough full of ground cloves is supposed to have caused the fire.

The Boston Traveler of Saturday says: In the boot and shoe trade prices have advanced slightly. Manufacturers are giving more credits than heretofore, but they are generally for short periods.

A fire in Sandusky on Saturday night totally destroyed the plaster mill of Marsh & Co., with five fish warehouses adjoining. Total loss $30,000, insurance small. The fire was supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Edwin Booth has been refused the trunk of J. Wilkes Booth by General Grant. Mr. Booth is unable to fulfil his engagement in Baltimore owing to a wound in the hand, received on Saturday evening from Mr. Vandenhoff, with whom he was fencing in Richard III.

The United States Railroad Commissioners, after inspecting and accepting another section, twenty-five miles, of the Kansas Pacific Railroad, left St. Louis for Omaha yesterday, to inspect thirty-five miles, just completed, on the Union Pacific route.

Mexico City correspondence, of August 25th, says: Considerable canvassing and excitement followed the call made by President Juarez for a general election. The factions were active, and the opposition were neglecting no opportunity to diminish the chances of President Juarez. The latter is in favor of so amending the Mexican Constitution as to make it like that of the United States. He is in favor of allowing the clergy to vote and be voted for, of having two Houses of Congress and of making the ministers report to the Executive, as is done in the United States. Santa Anna's trial is daily expected to take place. His counsel will be the same gentlemen who defended Maximilian. The general impression is that he will not be executed, but that his estates will be confiscated. Lazado had surrendered to Corona, and Escobedo, Canales and Lopez, the traitor, are doing their best, each in his own way, to leave their mark in history.

Liquor in Walrussia.

Gen. Halleck telegraphs Gen. Grant suggesting that the Government at once apply the regulations governing the Indian territories to the recently acquired Russian tdrritory on the Northwest Pacific, in order to prevent an illicit traffic in liquor, and to obviate its demoralizing tendencies on the natives. Gen. Halleck does not state that any such trade has commenced, but he doubtless bases his telegram on some facts which have come to his notice. General Grant has referred the subject to the State Department, where the opinion is entertained that General Rousseau, our Special Commissioner, and the Revenue Agent who accompanies him, are fully competent to protect the Government and guard the interests of the new subjects.

A Significant Editorial.

The Intelligencer to-day declares that the Judiciary is simply the Judge of a law, but that the President is the judge of those public events and combinations which threaten the overthrow of the Constitution, and the supremacy of the law. It, therefore, urges him to employ all his authority to preserve the Constitution, and to put down what it calls a wide-spread conspiracy to overthrow the Constitution, as evinced in the enforcement of the Reconstruction acts. The writer of the article has had, of late, frequent interviews with Mr. Johnson, and unusual significance is attached to the editorial in political quarters.

Interview with Grant.

Col. Forney and other gentlemen had an interview with Gen. Grant to-day, during which the political situation was freely discussed, but while the former look upon it as fully satisfactory to them, it is understood that none of the details will be published.

Election in Virginia Ordered.

Gen. Grant to-day received from Gen. Schofield a telegram communicating the important fact that he had ordered the election in Virginia for the 22d of October under the reconstruction acts, thus disregarding the suggestion which the President had made for uniform elections in all the Southern States on the first Tuesday in November. The fact elicits considerable comment, and the friends of the President say that he will certainly remove Schofield unless he postpones his election.

Gen. Sickles Ordered to Headquarters.

An order was issued to-day by Gen. Grant, directing Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, lately in command of the Second Military District, to report in person at the Headquarters of the army, between the 17th and 21st inst.

The White House.

A very large number of visitors were at the Executive Mansion to-day, and many had an interview with the President. Ex-Senator Cowan, Ex-Postmaster General Blair, and Representative Robinson, of New York, were among those who had an audience with the Executive this morning.

Mayor of Mobile.

The Star says ex-Mayor Withers, of Mobile, is here for the purpose of being reinstated as Mayor of that city.

Senator Fessenden and Impeachment.

A gentleman in this city has received a letter from Senator Fessenden, in which occurs the following passage relative to the report recently published that he had expressed himself in favor of impeachment: "I have written no letter and expressed no opinion on the subject of impeachment. It will be time enough for me to express an opinion on that subject when the case comes before me. You are at perfect liberty to contradict that report, as I do not like to be considered as giving the lie to all I have said in the Senate with regard to my duties as a Senator in such a case."

Sheridan and Sickles.

General Grant, it is learned positively to-day, has summoned Sheridan and Sickles here for consultation.

Seeking Light.

The Attorney General's office is overwhelmed with letters from the South, inquiring if the recent amnesty proclamation gives them the right of suffrage, and desiring information as to whether certain persons come under the classes pardoned.

Collectors and Assessors in Trouble.

The President had under consideration tonight the cases of several Collectors and Assessors of Internal revenue, against whom charges have been filed. The Department has recommended their suspension under the civil tenure act. They belong in New York.

PATENTS.

During the week ending on the 24th inst., two hundred and forty-five patents will be issued from the Patent Office. During the past week five hundred and forty applications and eighty caveats have been filed.

DISCOMFORTS AT ANTIETAM.

A private telegram from Reedysville says: The speakers' stand is nearly three miles from the telegraph office, and some distance from where the cars stop. Transportation up to Antietam Cemetery is very limited; at least seven-eighths of the visitors will have to walk in deep dust. The accommodations for refreshment are very limited. Large numbers of persons arrived at Reedysville to-day, and the town and country are being overrun with them.

FINANCIAL MATTERS.

During the week ending to-day there has been issued from the printing bureau of the Treasury Department fractional currency to the amount of $526,442. The amounts forwarded to other points during the week were as follows, viz: To the Assistant Treasurer at New York, $100,000; to the Assistant Treasurer at New Orleans, $50,000; to the United States Depositary at Cincinnati, $100,000; to the United States Depositary at Louisville, $20,000, and the National banks, $301,585. Total, $571,585.

The United States Treasurer holds in trust for the National banks at this date $379,033,950, of which $340,660,000 is held as security for circulating notes, and $38,373,950 for deposits of public moneys.

The amount of national bank currency issued during the week was $71,660. The total amount to date is $303,907,660. From this is to be deducted the amount returned, including worn out notes, amounting to $4,793,295, which leaves in actual circulation at this date $299,114,371.

The amount of fractional currency redeemed and destroyed during the week was $471,700.

The amount of coin in the Treasury up to last evening was $100,022,000, of which $14,673,000 are represented by entered certificates of coin. The amount of currency on hand was $46,559,000.

The coin receipts for the last six days up to last evening were $3,498,000.

The internal revenue receipts to-day foot up $263,925 49, and the aggregate amount for the fiscal year to date is $50,371,541.

PROSPECTS OF THE RADICAL TICKET IN THE SOUTH.

Hon. William Windom, of Minnesota, who has been on a tour through the Southern States, has just returned, having addressed the people at several prominent points along his route. He renders a favorable account of the present prospects for the success of the Republican ticket, and says the people are generally disposed to accept the Congressional plan of reconstruction.

THE APPLICATION OF GEN. FITZ JOHN PORTER FOR A NEW TRIAL.

There is considerable feeling here in civil as well as military circles concerning the re-opening of the case of Gen. Fitz John Porter. The general opinion is that Porter had a fair trial, and that his sentence, though severe, was just and in accordance with military law. Some of the radicals, and among them many shrewd and prominent politicians, regard the attempt to give Porter a new trial as an effort on the part of the President to gather around him military men of his own way of thinking. They say that if Porter is tried again he will likely come before a court martial selected by the President, which will acquit him, and he will thereupon be reinstated in the army. In the execution of the President's programme it is known that he does not count upon the hearty support of the prominent officers of the army, like Sheridan, Pope and Sickles. Rousseau is said to be with him, and it is thought Fitz John Porter would be a valuable accession. It is intimated that Gen. Grant is not very enthusiastic in behalf of giving Porter a new trial. There is little doubt, however, that the President will convene a court martial at an early day to try the case.

GREELEY AND STEEDMAN.

General Steedman will be appointed Secretary of War in a short time. Not long since the New York Tribune denounced Steedman in an editorial as a man totally unfit for the place. To-day the President publishes the following letter:

OFFICE OF THE TRIBUNE, NEW YORK, January 28, 1866.
[Confidential.]

DEAR SIR: The journals generally say that Mr. Stanton has tendered his resignation, and expects soon to leave the War Department. Should this be the case, I venture to suggest as his successor General James B. Steedman, of Ohio, one of the bravest and truest of our Union volunteers, and a capable and devoted patriot. Trusting you are aware of his merits, I remain yours,

HORACE GREELEY.

Hon. A. Johnson, President.

THE NORTH CAROLINA CONFLICT.

It is stated upon apparently reliable information that Chief Justice Chase has written to the President sustaining the civil authorities in the judicial cases in North Carolina, out of which arose the conflict of authority between General Sickles and Marshal Goodloe. It is also said that his letters will shortly be given to the public, in order to damage Mr. Chase's prospects for the Presidency, although the document is marked confidential.

OPPOSED TO MR. M'CULLOCH'S REMOVAL.

Collector Smythe and ex-Collector Barney, of New York, who have been here for several days, have, in their interview with the President, urged the retention of Mr. McCulloch in his present position, and both have received assurances from the President that he had no intention of displacing him.

REDUCING EXPENSES OF FREEDMEN'S BUREAU.

General Howard, in order to reduce the expense of the Freedmen's Bureau to the narrowest possible limits, after consultation with General Grant, has issued an important letter to the Assistant Commissioners, calling for the reduction of the number of employees whenever it can be enforced. General Grant has issued an order of co-operation, designating subordinate military officers to take the places of those dismissed.

GENERAL GRIFFIN'S SUCCESSOR.

General Grant has assigned Brevet Major General Joseph L. Reynolds, now on the Rio Grande, to the command of the District of Texas, made vacant by the death of General Griffin, and Brevet Major General J. A. Mower, who is at New Orleans, to the temporary command of the Department of the Gulf.

HANCOCK AND SHERIDAN.

Gen. Hancock has not yet arrived here, though daily expected. He comes at the President's request, for Gen. Grant has not summoned him. Gen. Sheridan, who left Leavenworth Friday night, is expected here in about a week. He will make brief stoppages at Chicago, at his old home in Ohio, and in New York.

BOOTH'S REMAINS.

Part of the old Penitentiary building is to be torn down shortly, when the remains of Booth and the assassins will be dug up and removed.

MANSFIELD, OHIO.

Young Man Killed on the Fort Wayne Road---Fatal Accident at Delphos--Gen. R. B. Hayes.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

MANSFIELD, O., September 16, 1867.

A young man by the name of John Gallagher, living near the track of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, about two miles east of here, was found dead on the track yesterday morning. He had been visiting a young lady who lived near the place where he was found, and left her about three o'clock Sunday morning, with the intention of coming to town to engage a team for a ride with her on Sunday. A bad bruise in his back indicated that he met his death by being struck by a locomotive, but whether he was walking on the track at the time, or sitting down and had fallen asleep, of course cannot be known. He was a young man of excellent character.

At Delphos, Ohio, to-day, a blacksmith by the name of Vouderenz, was instantly killed by a pile of lumber falling on him.

General R. B. Hays spent a few hours in this city this afternoon on his way to his appointment at Massillon, to-morrow.

SALEM, OHIO.

The "Grand" Democratic Demonstration a Slim Affair--Republicans Confident.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.

SALEM, OHIO, September 16, 1867.

The "unterrified" made an immense effort to get up a demonstration here to-day. They have labored for weeks to secure the very largest possible turnout, and to-day was the grand fruition. The procession consisted of just eighty-six vehicles and about two dozen horsemen, and numbering not quite six hundred men, women and children. The crowd at the speaker's stand was estimated at from eight to twelve hundred, and many of them Republicans. The meeting was addressed by Judge Bliss, of Wooster, and E. B. Eshelman, of the Ohio Statesman. The speeches were, as usual, composed largely of "nigger," the remainder being taxation of Government bonds, &c. This is the grand demonstration that was to redeem this section from Radicalism. The Republicans are confident of fully maintaining their majority here.

Interesting Letter Written by Maximilian just Before His Death---The Disposal to be Made of His Body---Madame Miramon to Remain with His Mother.

The following letter was written by Maximilian two days before his execution:

QUERETARO, PRISON OF LAS CAPUCHANS, 17th of June, 1867.

DEAR BARON LAGO, Minister of Austria to Mexico:

I am done with this world. My very last wishes are in regard only to my mortal remains, which will soon be freed from all pain, and in regard to those who must survive me. My physician, Dr. Basch, will have my body brought to Vera Cruz. He will be accompanied only by my two servants, Gull and Puqos.

I have ordered that my body be transported without any pomp or solemnity to Vera Cruz, and that on board the vessel that is to bring it to Europe no unusual ceremony take place. I have awaited death calmly, and I wish to be left in the same stillness while in my coffin.

You will take measures, my dear Baron, so that Dr. Basch and my two servants, who take my body in care, and accompany it to Europe on one of the two war vessels. Over there I wish to be buried beside my poor wife.

If the news of my poor wife's death should not prove true, my body should be placed somewhere until the Empress rejoin me in death. Have the goodness to see that the necessary orders be forwarded to Captain Groller.

Have also the goodness to take measures so that the widow of my faithful companion in arms, Miramon, can go to Europe on one of the war vessels. I reckon the more on the fulfillment of this request as she is charged by me to remain with my mother at Vienna.

I again thank you from my heart for the trouble which you take on my account, and remain your well-wishing

MAXIMILIAN, M. P.

A New Version of Maximilian's Execution.

The London Times contains a long account of Maximilian's death, written by its correspondent in the City of Mexico, from which we extract the following interesting portion, giving a different account from what has hitherto been published:

And now for the horrible finale. On the morning of the 19th of May, the Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Austria, Emperor of Mexico, in company with Generals Miramon and Mejia, were taken out to be shot; they were conveyed to the place of execution, a short distance outside the city of Queretaro, in a coach; the streets through which they passed were lined with soldiers and the coach itself surrounded by a guard. When within a hundred yards of the place his Majesty descended from the coach, and with his usual firm and natural step walked to the spot which had been assigned to him. He then, asking for the men who were going to shoot him, gave each of them an ounce of gold. Having embraced Miramon and Mejia, who stood on either side of him, he advanced a little, and is reported to have said in a firm and steady voice: "Mexicans! Persons of my class and origin are marked by God either for the happiness of nations or to die as martyrs in their cause. Called by a portion of you, I came for the good of the country. Ambition, I had none. I came actuated by the best wishes for the future of my adopted country. Mexicans, may my blood be the last spilt, and may it regenerate this wretched country."

He then inclined his head, received the blessing of the priest, raised his eyes to heaven, and advancing one foot, awaited death with a serene countenance, pointing with his hands to his heart as the mark at which his executioners were to aim. In this country ten soldiers are invariably allotted to each execution, but on the present occasion, doubtless as an additional degradation, there were only four, with one in reserve to complete the deed, if necessary. The soldiers were so nervous that, instead of aiming as directed by the royal martyr, they lodged the four balls in his right side, lacerating him in an awful manner. Writhing in agony, and almost suffocated with the blood rushing out of his mouth, he never for one moment lost that serenity and dignity so peculiarly his own, but dropping on one hand, continued pointing with the other to his heart. The fifth man was so horrified that he threw down his musket and ran away, and upwards of five minutes elapsed before any one could be found to put him out of his misery. Even then two men were brought whose muskets both missed fire, and it was not until a third was brought that the horrible tragedy was brought to a conclusion.

THE New York Commercial Bulletin expresses its opinion that the unusual advance in the price of gold seems to be almost entirely the work of speculators for a rise, and not owing to the numerous rumors of political and other difficulties. "The premium on gold," it says, "is not expected to fall much below 1 40 for the present, but the highest prices of the week are considered extraordinary, and not an indication of the future course of the market."

GENERAL SICKLES ON THE SITUATION.

Serenade and Speech.

General Sickles was serenaded in New York on Friday evening by the Seventh regiment and Excelsior brigade, when he made a speech. From it we quote the following eloquent, forcible and significant passage:

I am glad to see you are not unmindful of the fraternal ties which bind the old army together in a true and tried brotherhood. Without making these organizations political, which would disturb their harmony and impair their usefulness, they can do much to promote the benevolent objects of their founders and to secure justice to our old comrades and their families. All honor to the Grand Army of the Republic. [Cheers.] While the American people cherish in grateful remembrance the fidelity and valor which saved the nation, they will not suffer the sacrifices of long years of war to be wasted. In the prosecution of the war no institution, no party, no man [loud applause] was allowed to stand in the way; in the settlement of the terms of peace the will of the majority of the loyal people represented in Congress [loud cheers] must be obeyed by all departments of the Government, and by every citizen, every magistrate and every soldier. The destiny of the Republic is safe in the hands of the men who put down the rebellion. This is not the time nor the occasion for me to discuss any personal or political issues. There are matters of deep interest to all of us, now engaging public attention, about which I should like some day to know your views, and possibly you may desire hereafter to know mine. [Cries of "yes" and cheers.] I shall not refer to my recent service in the Carolinas, any further than to declare that I have obeyed all the orders I have ever received, and that I have faithfully endeavored to exercise the authority I possessed for the welfare of the people committed to my charge, according to the true intent and meaning of the laws which had to govern and regulate my action. Much remains to be done before our beloved country can enjoy the repose and security you won for her at Gettysburg, and Atlanta and Spottsylvania and Winchester and Richmond. The enemies who surrendered to Grant and Sherman and Sheridan are now on their parole of honor to obey the laws of the land. They agreed by that parole to accept and abide by the terms and conditions Congress should impose for their readmission into the Union, and for such qualified, general or partial restoration of civil rights as should be vouchsafed to them. I believe that parole will be kept; but it will only be kept whenever the government, in all of its departments, is agreed in executing in good faith, and without hesitation, and without cavil, the laws of the Congress of the United States, passed by the representatives of the people. The will of the people who have put down the rebellion, must be executed. Then, and not till then, shall we have peace. Let us have faith in the future. Let no one take counsel of the timid; whoever may be tried and found wanting, the army of to-day—the armies of 1865—the citizen soldiers of the republic, and Grant, their invincible leader, will never falter, never fail.

OHIO NEWS.

Frank Florin, a thriftless, drunken plasterer, assaulted his wife Eliza with an ax, at their residence in Cleveland, on Friday night, inflicting injuries on her head that will probably prove fatal. The woman was engaged in sewing some pants for a tailor when assaulted, and no cause is assigned for the murderous attack but that of jealousy when under the influence of rum, although the wife was esteemed by her neighbors as an honest, virtuous and industrious woman. The woman was alive at last accounts, and the would-be-murderer is in jail.

He was extricated as soon as possible, and received all possible care, but died on Sunday morning. Mr. Holman, who is pastor of the United Brethren Church, was absent at the time attending a religious gathering in Ohio. Ella Williams, aged ten years, daughter of Eli Williams, of Cherry Run, came to her death, at Mountain Well Lease, in that vicinity, on Thursday night, 5th inst., about six o'clock, under similar circumstances.

RICHMOND, September 16.—The subscription of two millions to the stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, was carried to-day by over 2,000 majority. The negroes voted for it en masse. The opponents intend contesting the legality of the election, on the ground that the negroes, under the Supplemental Reconstruction bill, had no right to vote except in case of election for office; also, that registration is not complete until the final revision of the lists, and that therefore the negroes to-day were not registered voters.

WEST VIRGINIA NEWS.

The Morgantown Post says the determination is generally expressed by the people of that county that they will vote for no man who does not come out "fair and square" and define his position on the question of exempting the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company from taxation.

There will be a grand tournament at Burning Springs, on the 27th day of September, for the grand honor and championship of Wirt county. A plot of ground favorably located has been selected. About thirty of the young men of the Springs have handed in their names as proposed contestants.

N. N. Hoffman, Esq., of the Morgantown Post, declines being a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates. He says: "One term has fully satisfied me that 'going to the Legislature is not suited to a man who earns his bread and butter by the sweat of his face.' My duties at home forbid my being a candidate. I am under obligations to the Republican party of Monongalia for the honor conferred on me last fall, but must decline being a candidate again."

A monument to deceased Confederate soldiers is to be dedicated at Romney, on the 26th instant.

What the President Expects to Accomplish.

The correspondent of the Boston Post has reported another interview with Mr. Johnson. From the report we quote the following: "I inquired what he thought would be the practicable effect of the Amnesty Proclamation. He promptly replied "to restore the parties to all their rights—to place them precisely where they were before the war. The suffrage question was one to be determined by the Courts, and not by the executive branch of the Government." In alluding to the future he said he had no idea what Congress would do, but he believed the people would take care that their Government was not subverted and destroyed. So far as he was concerned, he should exercise every constitutional power in its defence, but that the great controlling power was in the hands of the people themselves, and his firm conviction was that they would use it wisely and efficiently. The late elections in California and Maine served only to fix his confidence in the "sober second thought of the people."

RAILWAY MATTERS

DUNKIRK, WARREN AND PITTSBURGH RAILROAD.

In noticing the fact that the contract for building this road has been let to T. B. Simpson & Co., the Erie Dispatch thus refers to the apathy of the people of Warren: "The sum of $300,000 have been subscribed on the route from Warren to Dunkirk, and it is expected that this amount will pay the expense of grading the whole route. The interest so far is in the hands of New York capitalists. If Warren wants to be properly benefitted by the road, she must put Pennsylvania capital into it, and by this means control to a certain extent its operations. Railroads generally operate to pay its management first—the country through which they pass, or where they terminate, last; and if the Warren people are not awake to their interests, they will find another party ready to step in and carry the road to Irvineton, West, and to some other point East of them, it not being a terminus so much as connection which is wanted. Coal and oil are both embraced in the transportation schedule."

FAST TRAVELING.

The Scientific American is authority for the statement that it is contemplated, on the completion of a new railroad from London to Liverpool, to run express trains which surpass anything yet realized in railway traveling in any country. The whole distance between these stations—over 200 miles—will be run without a single stoppage, and the time occupied will be two and a half hours; the speed being at the extraordinary rate of eighty-one miles an hour.

THE SPRINGFIELD, MOUNT VERNON AND PITTSBURGH RAILROAD.

The Mt. Vernon Banner says: By a decree of the Court of Common Pleas for Knox county, the Springfield, Mt. Vernon and Pittsburgh Railroad (or what is left of it) was this week sold to a company of our citizens, for the sum of $1,350. The object of the purchasers is to place the road in such a condition that it can, at any time, be transferred to any responsible parties or company who will complete the work. It is earnestly to be hoped that such a company may be found, and that the road will be completed at an early day.

Austin was taken to his home in Fayette county.

ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.—Mr. Wm. Crausum, of the Fourth ward, Allegheny, met with a very narrow escape from drowning in the Ohio river, at Captina, Ohio, a few days since. Mr. Crausum is jointly interested in furnishing stone for a dam, which is being erected at Captina by the Ohio River Survey party, and while engaged in floating the stone in a small flat from the shore to the desired point, fell overboard into the river. Being unable to swim he would have drowned, had not assistance been promptly at hand.

TAKEN TO THE PENITENTIARY.—Deputy U. S. Marshal Gillespie yesterday conveyed to the Western Penitentiary, in Allegheny City, A. Myers, who was recently convicted in the United States District Court of passing counterfeit money, and sentenced to seven years imprisonment in that institution. Deputy Sheriff Stubbs also conveyed to the same institution J. C. Brown and Ellen Henderson, the former convicted of horse stealing and sentenced to six years imprisonment, and the latter for larceny and sentenced for one year.

Clark and other distinguished speakers are expected to be present and address the public on the great temperance question. Good music may also be expected from the Arsenal Lodge choir, assisted by others from neighboring Lodges.

COLORED SCHOOL BUILDING.—The new school building being erected on Webster street, Allegheny, for the use of colored children, is rapidly approaching completion, and it is expected will be ready for occupancy by the first of October. The building is of frame, and is two stories in height. There are four rooms, two on each floor, each twenty-nine by thirty-seven feet, with ceilings sixteen feet high. The rooms are lighted by five large windows, and every arrangement for perfect ventilation has been made. The building is being finished in a neat and comfortable manner, and will be sufficiently large to accommodate all the colored pupils of Allegheny.

ANOTHER HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—A man named John Snyder, residing near Bennett's Mills, while on his way home on Saturday night, was attacked at the corner of Sycamore and Ohio streets, Allegheny, by three ruffians, who knocked him down and beat him in an outrageous manner, and then robbed him of his pocket-book containing twelve dollars. He was very severely injured, and was hardly able to reach home. Information of the robbery was given to the Allegheny police, but no trace of the villains has been discovered.

ANOTHER CUTTING AFFRAY.—Last night about eleven o'clock, Robert alias "Bunty" Gillespie was standing on Fulton street, in the Sixth ward, in company with some friends, when a young man named Thomas Allison passed along the street. Gillespie made some remark, which was resented by Allison when Gillespie drew a knife and inflicted a severe stab on his cheek. Gillespie was immediately arrested and placed in the lock-up, where he yet remains. He is a notorious character, having been connected with a number of similar transactions, and an effort will be made to mete out justice to him on this occasion.

ACCIDENT TO AN ALLEGHENIAN.—Mr. James Rooth, a resident of the Second ward, Allegheny, met with a severe accident on Friday afternoon last, at Captina, Belmont county, Ohio. Mr. Rooth has the contract for supplying the stones for the dams, now in course of erection by the Government at Captina, and on the afternoon stated he was engaged in supervising some work going on in the quarry. By some mishap he fell over the quarry to the bank below, a distance of thirty feet, dislocating his shoulder blade, breaking his arm and otherwise severely injuring himself. He was brought to his home in Allegheny, where he is attended by Dr. John Hamilton.

Sudden Death.

Yesterday afternoon the dead body of a man was found on the Brownsville road, in Baldwin township, about eight miles from the city. Coroner Clawson was summoned and proceeded at once to hold an inquest. From the testimony elicited before the jury, it appears that about seven o'clock in the morning deceased was passing Mr. Noble's residence, five miles from the city, when he was seized with a fit and fell to the ground, cutting his head severely. He was carried into Mr. Noble's house, where his head was bandaged, and upon recovering from his fit was advised not to resume his journey at that time. He refused to accept Mr. Noble's hospitality, stating that it was necessary that he should reach the new Methodist Church, some five miles distant. He also stated to the family that his name was Koch, and that he was in the employ of a butcher named Myers, residing in Allegheny. He then started forward, and nothing further was known of his movements until he was found dead. Dr. Wishert examined the body, and discovered that the skull had been fractured. Deceased was about fifty years of age.

United States District Court

In this Court yesterday, before Judge McCandless, an argument was had in the case of Samuel Haight vs. The Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company. This argument came up on a case stated for the purpose of receiving the opinion of the Court on a question involved in the form of a special verdict. The plaintiff in the case sold to defendants the tract of land in this city upon which the freight depot of the Company now stands, for $105,000. Five thousand dollars of this amount was paid in cash, and for the balance one hundred bonds, styled construction bonds, of $1,000 each, were issued, with interest coupons attached. Under the revenue laws, these coupons were taxed, and the amount thus assessed was paid by the defendants, and placed to their credit against the balance due the plaintiff. The plaintiff claimed that he had no legal right to pay the revenue tax, and it was on the issue thus raised that a decision was desired. The amount in dispute is about $20 10. Joseph Knox, Esq., conducted the argument on the part of the plaintiff, and Hon. W. H. Lowrie for defendant. The Court took charge of the papers and will give a decision in a few days.

THE O'HARA CASE AGAIN.

Judge McCandless, at the instance of the counsel for the creditors of Michael O'Hara, granted a rule to show cause why the said O'Hara should not be held for contempt in not fully complying with the order of the Court, requiring him to hand over all his property to the custody of the Marshal. The counsel for O'Hara resisted the rule on the ground that, having availed himself of the right of trial by jury, this proceeding was not proper. The Court granted the parties permission to take depositions before the Register, Mr. Harper, with notice to the counsel of O'Hara.

Public Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—The new play of "Caste" was presented last evening to a large and fashionable audience, and was enthusiastically received. As "Esther Eccles," Miss Thompson was really charming, and she received well-merited applause. All the characters were in good hands, and excepting that the performance dragged a little, it was well enacted throughout. The play possesses much interest, and is destined to be popular. It will be repeated this evening.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The grand vocal and instrumental concert by F. J. Loudin's pupils will take place this evening at the Academy of Music. The programme embraces a number of excellent selections, and will doubtless be well rendered.

A special meeting of the Petroleum Association was held yesterday afternoon at the rooms, on Duquesne Way. President Burke being absent, Mr. A. L. Dilworth was called upon to preside.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR BONDED OIL.

Mr. H. M. Long, the Secretary, stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of taking some action in regard to the new mode of bonding oil, adopted by the Secretary of the Treasury, and read at detail the regulations as they now exist.

Mr. King moved that a Committee of three be appointed to proceed to Washington and endeavor to have the old regulations re-adopted. Mr. King stated that a meeting of the Philadelphia Association had been called, and as it intended to take similar action, the Committees could co-operate.

Mr. Lockhart read a letter from parties in Philadelphia, stating that the new regulations amounted almost to prohibition in the transportation of oil, and recommending that immediate action be taken by the Association in regard to the matter.

Mr. Kirk thought that the matter was very important to the trade. If the regulations are carried out we might as well close our refineries, as it will be impossible to conform to the new rules. The committee should also inquire into the manner of gauging, and recommend to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that some such improvements as they may decide upon. It was a well-known fact that the oil refiners were charged exorbitantly for gauging, and the money put into the pockets of politicians.

A vote was then taken on Mr. King's motion, when it was unanimously adopted. The following gentlemen were then appointed said committee: Messrs. Lockhart, Logan and Forsyth.

Mr. Kirk moved that the Committee be requested to take into consideration the subject of gauging, and other matters of interest to the trade, and consult with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in regard to the same. Adopted.

FREIGHT ON THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.

Mr. Kirk, from the Committee on Railroads, presented a report, embracing the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The present freight tariff on oil is now the same from Oil City to Philadelphia as from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, thus compelling the refiners of Pittsburgh to pay the freight from Oil City to Pittsburgh, (now one dollar per barrel, and never less than fifty cents,) more than their competitors elsewhere, thus rendering it impossible for the refiners of Pittsburgh to continue their business; and

WHEREAS, The route from the oil region to the seaboard, via Pittsburgh, is as short, we therefore think it is the true interest of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to make it as cheap as any other route to the seaboard, therefore,

Resolved, That a special committee of five be appointed, whose duty it shall be to proceed to Philadelphia immediately and lay this action before the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and solicit them to adopt a standing rule that the freights on oil from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia shall in all cases be at least fifty cents per barrel less than from Oil City to the seaboard by the same or other route, thus simply placing the refiners of Pittsburgh on an equality with the refiners of other parts of the country.

Mr. Kirk stated that the officers of the railroad company in this city had been directed to advance the freight on oil from and after the first of October.

Mr. Long said that the increase would at the rate of one cent per gallon, which would be a heavy tax on any person having heavy contracts to deliver oil in Philadelphia.

The resolutions were then adopted, and the Railroad Committee instructed to take charge of the matter and to their number if necessary.

HOPEFUL DISPATCH FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. H. M. Long read the following telegraphic dispatch, which had just been received:

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16, 1867.

To Petroleum Association:—We met the Philadelphia Committee this morning, and called on the Pennsylvania Railroad officials. Asked that present rates be continued until December. The result is life or death to Pittsburgh refiners. We are hopeful.

R. S. WARING, for Committee.

After the transaction of some unimportant business, the Association adjourned.

[Before Alderman Butler.]

STABBED WITH A RAZOR.

Some time since a colored man, bearing the immortal name of George Washington, made an information before Alderman Butler charging one James Johnson, also colored, with felonious assault and battery, alleging that the latter stabbed him with a razor, injuring him very severely, and causing him to be confined to his house for several days. A warrant was issued at the time, but Johnson managed to elude the police until yesterday, when he was arrested. In default of bail he was committed to jail for a hearing to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

[Before Alderman Strain.]

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

John Mason was charged yesterday with committing an assault and battery upon Elizabeth Jones, in catching her and throwing her violently to the ground. The alleged assault was committed at Girty's Run, on Sunday. A warrant was issued.

AN OFFICER IN TROUBLE.

[Before Alderman Thomas.]

CROSS-SUITS.

Minnie Watson made information before Alderman Thomas, against Isabella Matthews, for assault and battery. The prosecutrix alleges that the defendant scratched her, pulled her hair, and then beat her in different parts of her body. The defendant preferred the same charge against Minnie, also alleging that she was struck in the face and beaten in different parts of her body by Minnie. They were held to bail for a further hearing. The parties reside in the Sixth ward.

The Daily Commercial

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1867.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

OUR CANDIDATE.

Hon. Henry W. Williams.

[From the Pittsburgh Post, June 28.]

WORTHY CANDIDATES.

"The nomination of Henry W. Williams as a candidate for Judge of the Suprema Court, is a good one. He was the best man named before the Republican Convention, and possesses legal and moral qualifications for the responsible position to which he has been nominated. Both parties have now presented their candidates. An important duty has been faithfully discharged by the respective conventions. The campaign may now be conducted without personal aspersions, and decided upon the principles of the two great parties. This is as it should be."

[From the Pittsburgh Post, August 29.]

If the notice of Judge Williams's nomination which appeared in the "Post" at the time, and now kept standing at the head of the Republican papers, is intended as a rebuke for any supposed inconsistency since, it fails in its purpose. We have nothing to take back or modify. Of Judge Williams's private or legal reputation we have nothing but words of praise, and however it may suit some pugnacious and heady politicians, we cannot bring ourselves to view personal assaults as either wise or politic. The Democracy plants itself upon principle and deals with facts, and discusses the public and official acts of candidates.

EXCEEDINGLY patronizing already is the rabid rebel press, in view of the situation, as it sees it. One of the sort, accustomed to the wildest paroxysms of passionate railing, expresses the hope "that the North and the freedmen in our midst shall have every guaranty that their rights and welfare will be secure in the keeping of Virginia gentlemen." Now, that is kind, as well as cool.

A VOLUNTARY reduction of rates, as seen in a livery advertisement in our columns, is a thing to be noted and commended. It has also been done in some other departments. But, in articles of subsistence, the rule of high prices is rigorously maintained. This appears not only anomalous in the midst of abundance, but oppressive in view of the reduction in other things.

THE Democrats are said to have lately fallen into a sudden fit of political love for the soldiers. After, for six years, reproaching and despising them and their heroic deeds in defense of their country, they, for a seven days' wonder, profess for them great friendship and admiration. Their political friendship is a farce, after the more earnest and sincere sympathy, for years shown, with the rebels and their cause. No Union soldier should be deceived by it.

THE Republicans of Berks county, in one of their resolutions, declared that, "we particularly honor GEN. U. S. GRANT for the noble stand which, while acting as Secretary of War, he has taken against Presidential tyranny and usurpation." If the New York Tribune and Independent read the proceedings of Republican meetings, as they are reported all over the country, they will be able to form a tolerably correct estimate of how successful they have been in their efforts to turn public opinion against Gen. GRANT.

THE Border State Convention in Baltimore was an influential and important assemblage. Among other resolutions was one in favor of a constitutional amendment "providing that no State shall disfranchise any citizen because of race or color." The following resolution was adopted unanimously:

That the military services of General U. S. Grant, his characteristic prudence and firmness, his devotion to popular liberty, and the fidelity to country which has illustrated his eminent career, while they entitle him to the gratitude of the people for what he has done in the past, and their confidence in what his noble nature must inspire him to do in the future, also entitle the people to confidently look to him in his two-fold capacity of General of the Army and Secretary of War to enact all the power and authority conferred upon him by the laws of the land to promote the fullest and most efficient execution of the acts of Congress known as the Reconstruction acts.

THE criticisms of the New York Herald on the policy of the Treasury Department and its opposition to Mr. MCCULLOCH, the Secretary, must be taken with some allowance, in view of the ideas it not long ago entertained of the magnitude and difficulty of the business. It is not surprising that with the notion of a speedy liquidation of the debt by voluntary offerings, should be associated the impression that it is getting along rather slowly by the matter of fact process with which the Secretary is reducing it. As Mr. MCCULLOCH has advanced considerably beyond the point reached by the fancy method, we are inclined to give the credit where it is due, and to join in the general congratulations on the gradual and somewhat rapid melting away of the huge mass.

THE New York Times is puzzled about the why and wherefore of a matter that no one can deny to be very queer. It asks, under a laudable curiosity for knowledge about such things, why the ferry boats carry huge anchors, lashed firmly to their bows, and yet carry no cables to make the "mud hooks" available in case of need. We can not positively say why, but a careful reading of the statute of incorporation, from the ferry owners' stand-point, will probably show that the arrangement is so nominated in the law. As in the regulation pattern for a military coat, the number of buttons is prescribed, and no mention of button holes, so, it is likely, the carrying of anchors was by short-sighted legislators presumed to embrace the carrying of cables too. But the strict construction comporting more directly with the profit of the corporators, they have obeyed the letter, though at the expense of violating the spirit and frustrating the intention of the law.

EX-CHIEF JUSTICE WOODWARD, now absent in Europe, is the unanimous choice of the Democracy of the Twelfth District of this State for Congress. It will be remembered that Judge WOODWARD decided the draft to be unconstitutional, and thus gave aid and comfort to the rebels. It will also be remembered that Judge WOODWARD, at the Monongahela House in this city, in 1862, declared himself in favor of letting the Southern States slide, and favored drawing the line between North and South east of Pennsylvania, thus showing his rebel proclivities. These facts are mentioned to show that the Democracy delight to honor those who were foremost in opposition to the Government. For promotion in the Democratic ranks it is only necessary for an ambitious man to have shown some opposition to the Government during the late rebellion. Judge SHASWOOD decided legal tenders to be unconstitutional, thus attempting to cripple the finances of the Government, and to a certain extent aid the rebellion. The Democracy desire to reward him therefor by placing him on the Supreme Bench, where he may have an opportunity of making similarly hostile decisions. Will loyal people permit them to prevail?

As an item of current news, we gave in yesterday's COMMERCIAL a brief compend of the quarterly report of the New York Police Department. We call attention now to a single item, to show by a conspicuous and undoubted fact, that they are in error, and serious error, who, whether for political or sectarian reasons, take an attitude of opposition to the educational system of our country.

In the past quarter, the number of arrests made in the city of New York was 27,823, and of the persons so arrested 5,921 could neither read nor write. This is nearly one to four and a half. But according to the census taken two years ago, only one in forty of the adult population is entirely without education, or unable to read and write. This one-fortieth is represented in the arrests by nearly 5,000, while the thirty-nine fortieths furnish scarcely 28,000. In round numbers, then, the arrests are ten, according to the ratio, among the uneducated, to one among the educated of the general population. Such a fact is sufficient, and sufficiently startling, we should imagine, to sweep away the pernicious nonsense which is uttered against the educational institutions generally adopted and approved in our country. It shows that our schools are not, as has been falsely charged, nurseries of crime, but that, on the contrary, the cases of arrest for crime and disorder are ten times more numerous among the uneducated than among the educated, according to the relative population of the classes.

TERRITORIAL EXPANSION.

Whence come the schemes of acquisition that from time to time meet the public eye, either in the form of conjecture, project, negotiation or actual compact? Who is it that feels so "scrouged" in this "pent up Utica" over which the star spangled banner floats, that he must needs be casting covetous eyes on all the broad continent and something besides on its margin? It is the greatest discovery of modern times, to have found out that we are sadly deficient of room where to bestow our good greenbacks and our people. Can't we be satisfied with the largest domain possessed by any government under the broad canopy?

Our greatest difficulties as a nation have arisen from the great extent of our territory, involving causes of dissension and alienation which cannot be corrected nor removed by legislation, nor by any conceivable policy. The diversity of interests must be greatly increased with the expansion of our territorial boundaries. Already, prior to the war—and it remains to be seen whether emancipation will have removed the necessity—we had occasion for two sets of laws, or gave occasion for endless contests about the one. Physical differences and diversities of race cannot be suited with uniform general legislation. And sectional legislation would be still worse. We cannot have a tariff for manufacturing sections and free trade for agricultural sections a thousand miles distant, but under the same government. We cannot have liberty of conscience and a church established by law under the same constitution. And the history of other times and other countries is as instructive as one of brief and recent annals, and as monitory of the difficulty and danger of rapid and wide expansion of territory. Expansion without people to occupy the ground is weakness; expansion that embraces heterogeneous and unassimilated people is positive danger. The best thing that can be certainly said about our Northwestern purchase is, that nobody lives there. The worst thing that could be said of the annexation of Mexico is, that it has eight millions of people in it. And such people!

Russia, with twice as large a population as ours, showed good policy on the score of power and profit in selling off her land. Brazil, with as much territory as we have, and a fourth part as large a population, is next to nothing in the rank of national powers, and internally is an unimproved and of course unproductive waste. In our country, the Republican character of the Government renders the expansion the more objectionable, embracing, as it must, the greater diversity of people, and augmenting the difficulty of securing common laws and their proper and just administration, and increasing indefinitely the expense of government as well as, very greatly, the chances of collision and strife.

IT may be affirmed, without any danger of violating the truth of history, that in no past political campaign, whether of a general or a State election, has there been appeal made so undisguisedly and deliberately to base motives, as by Democrats in the present canvass. We have not to go out of our own commonwealth or our own county, for numerous illustrations of this. But they exist elsewhere as well. In New York city, the roughs, who appear to be there a ruling class, as the condition of the city too plainly shows, are encouraged by public speakers to take matters into their own hands in despite of law made for the good order and the health of the city, and motives are appealed to which if not restrained by wholesome and lawful authority would disintegrate and destroy society anywhere. We do not believe that all who happen to be in the Democratic party, whether from accident or choice, approve of these things. And should the unscrupulous course be persisted in, we anticipate somewhat the effect to be produced upon the sober, intelligent and self-respecting portion of the party, that was produced in 1861, by the reckless sympathy with the rebellion that drove from it many of its best members. We have, therefore, less objection to that discreditable and dangerous kind of electioneering demagogueism, in a mere party view, than in view of the safety of society and the honor of manhood. From this standpoint, inflammatory appeals to base passions and appetites, such as we refer to, must be condemned by every good citizen. Votes secured in that way are dearly bought.

IT is to be hoped that Secretary MCCULLOCH will not fail to take immediate steps to thoroughly overhaul the Federal officers whose reprehensible practices are becoming notorious in this quarter. Black-mailing appears to have been carried on to an extent that has scarcely had a parallel. Men have been appointed and held offices on the condition that the principal portion of the avails of their offices should be given to a brawling politician, who, tacitly at least, has all the while claimed that the black-mailing was done with the knowledge if not at the instigation of Secretary MCCULLOCH. The Secretary, therefore, owes it to himself to give his attention to these things, and clean out the gang, who, to say the least, are no credit to him as appointees of his department.

Where appointments are farmed out on a basis as corrupt as they have been here, it would be a marvel if the public service had not suffered. Let the Secretary cause an examination to be made beneath the surface. Perhaps something besides "knocking down" and black-mailing has been going on. And we respectfully suggest that the U. S. District Attorney might discover something deserving of attention from him and the Grand Jury.

Dividing the Spoils.

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Commercial:

I read your article "N. P. Sawyer and the Federal offices." Certainly it contains some rich developments, and fully explains why that pure patriot never wanted any office himself. But might not the inquiries be further extended, so that the people could be enlightened as to the reasons why, when applications were made to certain Government officials here for subordinate positions, they were referred to the above named individual? Quere—Might not the heads of the Internal Revenue offices on Fourth street give some interesting information on this subject?

RADICAL.

IT has been learned that the letter of August 24th, from General Grant to General Sickles, is in his own handwriting, and of about the same length as his letter on the removal of Sheridan. He speaks in strong terms of Binckley's sophistries and rhetorics, and declares himself in full accord with the ends that Sickles was seeking to accomplish. He says, in substance, that he is no lawyer, and, therefore, even if he had not been restrained by his position as a soldier, he could not have answered the legal argument brought forward in the Cabinet, but he is satisfied that the spirit of the Reconstruction Act, if not its letter, justified Sickles in the course he took.

THE Independent asks "What shall be done with obituaries?" This inquiry is called out by what it chooses to call the "chronic controversy," which certain religious journals have with writers of obituary notices. After speaking of the fate such notices meet at the hands of editors, it shows how impossible it would be for a paper like the Independent to have an obituary department, and concludes: "We have accordingly adopted the only practicable alternative—namely, a table of deaths, just as of marriages, in which the notices are strictly considered as advertisements, and paid for as such. Any other plan is impracticable."

A census of the population of Sandusky, Ohio, recently taken, places the total population of the place at 11,171—5,571 males and 5,600 females under six years of age is 2,103; over six and under twenty-one, 3,943; over twenty-one and under fifty, 4,311; over fifty and under ninety, 814. The number who enlisted during the war was 636, of whom 50 died in service. There are 167 negroes in the place.

THE Richards Iron Works in Chicago advertised certain agricultural implements by way of experiment in a Buenos Ayres paper. Orders amounting to thirty thousand dollars were the result, all other places being skipped for Chicago.

The Great Railway Consolidation.

In the railway department of the COMMERCIAL yesterday we gave the particulars of the transfer of the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad to what is termed the Eastern Consolidation, although the most Eastern company mentioned in the consolidation is the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago. The people of St. Louis regard this new railway arrangement of the greatest importance to the growth and development of their city, and are consequently elated at the prospect of a great through route to the Eastern seaboard. This movement is also of some importance to Pittsburgh, which is already the great railway center between the East and West, as it will bring into close connection the business interests of the Western metropolis and intermediate cities and towns with those of Pittsburgh, through its trunk road, the Fort Wayne and Chicago. The Directors of the new company are: Geo. W. Cass, President of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad; Stillman Witt, President of the Bellefontaine Railroad; Henry C. Lord, President of the Indianapolis, Cincinnati and Lafayette Railroad; L. M. Hubby, President of Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad; Thomas A. Morris, of Indianapolis, Indiana; Pliny Hoagland, of Fort Wayne, Indiana.

The St. Louis Republican, referring to this movement, says:

"The operating contact with the St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad has been executed by this company, under the guarantee of the associated roads, in the place of the Terre Haute and Indianapolis Road, and on the 11th instant the parties met in this city and the arrangement was consummated by the formal surrender by Mr. Butler, the President (in the presence and under the direction of the Board of Directors), of the main line from St. Louis to Terre Haute, and the Alton Branch, which will in future be operated and managed by the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad Company, in the interest of the associated companies, whose object is to increase the facilities of communication between St. Louis and Eastern cities by this great central trunk line. Our citizens have every reason to congratulate themselves upon the consummation of this arrangement. The gentlemen interested are among the most able and experienced railroad managers of the country, representing some of the largest and most important Western roads, and will insure the making of the line between St. Louis and Indianapolis equal to any other line the United States."

PERSONAL.

—On the voyage of the Europe, with Madame Ristori and La Grange as seamen, one of the passengers was washed overboard. These two ladies, aided by the gentlemen of the troupe, got up an impromptu musical entertainment, and realized a sufficient amount to put the sailor's family beyond immediate want.

—Mr. J. Lothrop Motley's removal has compelled him to abandon his great work, The Thirty Years' War in Germany.

—Another week will see all the wandering editors of New York back in their places. Mr. Hurlbut, Mr. H. E. Sweetser, Mr. Raymond, and Mr. Goodwin are expected at once.

—Dr. Holland's new poem is two thousand lines longer than "Bitter Sweet." It will be out next week.

—Personal friends of General McClellan assert that he has no idea of returning home at the request of Mr. Johnson, and that, on the contrary, he has just determined to remain abroad another year, and has taken a house and made arrangements for the tuition of his children accordingly.

—Apropos of the late abolition of imprisonment for debt in France, the celebrated avocat and politician, M. Berryer, has published some reminiscences in which he describes former inmates of the prison of Clichy. "In my time," he remarks, "Maximilian, ruling Duke of Zweibrucken, afterward King of Bavaria, was incarcerated by his creditors. For long years I have seen Lord Mazereene, an immensely rich man, in the debtor's prison. Mazereene was imprisoned for a considerable debt in bills imposed upon him, as he represented, by cheating in play, the payment of which he refused. He spent in prison an income of 100,000 francs, kept open table and furnished his mistress with an equipage and a box in each theater. A Mr. Swan, an American, was twenty-two years at Clichy. In the numerous pamphlets directed against his creditors, he invariably began with the statement that he had estates in the United States worth more than five millions; that he could pay the demands of his creditors twenty times over; but that these demands were unjust and he would never recognize wrong as right by their payment. Mr. Swan was fifty-two years old when brought to prison, and left it, in consequence of the July Revolution, seventy-four years old. He died two months afterwards."

—Dr. Bellows sees a great many things in Europe which ordinary tourists do not see, and which ordinary writers do not write about. He speaks, under date of Nuremburg, of the precautions which are taken against premature burial. He says that in the cemetery there is a house, pleasantly arranged amid flower-beds and shrubs, to which all the dead are at once carried after being laid out, and there placed on beds, each with a bell-pull so connected with the hand that the least motion of the supposed corpse on reviving must arouse the attendant and bring instant attention. All this humane precaution has never yet been rewarded with a single call upon his watchfulness. Once, however, in a case where the deceased had died of dropsy, the subsidence of water caused a fall of the arm—the bell rang, and the attendant who had watched for years for the sound, when it came was so frightened that he ran from his post and alarmed the neighbors, who, after some time, rallied and discovered the cause of the alarm. This method of guarding against premature burial is quite common on the continent, but he thinks it is not worth adopting in America—though we commonly bury much too early for decency.

WESTERN NEWS.

When Mike McCoole was in Cincinnati, he took a great fancy to Aaron Jones's backer, a sporting man, named John Franklin. The result of his prepossession is that he has taken Franklin for his own backer, and he has authorized Franklin to make a match with Joe Coburn. Next week's Clipper will contain the challenge for $10,000.

The Barraboo (Wisconsin) Republic says: "The hop crop of Sauk county amounts to almost 30,000 bales, worth some $3,000,000, and the cost of picking is about $250,000."

The Michigan Southern Railroad has been building a couple of new passenger cars different from any heretofore used in this country. The interior is divided into five compartments, each secluded from the other. A passage two feet wide in the side of the car communicates with all the apartments and the central saloon. Each apartment is furnished with beautifully finished bronzed medallions, prominent among which are Pericles, Hespatia, Mark Anthony and Cleopatra.

The hostile Indians are said to be unwilling to trust the Commissioners. They demand the abandonment of the Powder river country before treating with any one. They have, however, sent word through runners, that they would be at Fort Laramie in November to hear propositions. The Commissioners decided to go to the North Platte; thence to Fort Larned, Colorado, via Julesburg and Denver. They expect to return to Leavenworth in October.

The Union Pacific railroad is finished four hundred and fifty miles from Omaha, and within fifty-nine miles of Cheyenne. The Government Commissioners will examine the additional section now completed next week.

A telegram from Commissioner Beauvais, at Fort Laramie, says seventy lodges of Northern Arrapahoes, under Little Shield, offer to surrender if the Government will protect them and feed their families. General Sherman issued an order to feed them until the meeting of the council in November.

A story is told of a brawny raftsman who approached the Southern Hotel in St. Louis just as the excitement over the reception of General Sheridan was at its climax. He asked a bystander, "What is all this about?" The man being a bit of a wag, and seeing the raftsman was a little unsophisticated, replied: "it is a great celebration in honor of McCoole." The raftsman immediately became highly interested, and exclaimed: "What! the man that licked Jones? I must see him anyhow," and he pressed forward. Just then his eyes fell upon a little man that was speaking, and he asked another spectator—"Is that him?" "That's him," was the reply, thinking he spoke of Sheridan. The big timber driver looked at the speaker fixedly for half a minute, and then said: "Wall, if that's McCoole, Aaron Jones aint worth a cuss. Call such a little squirt of a man a fighter!" and so saying he turned away in evident disgust.

THE N. Y. Commercial Bulletin, alluding to the exploits of a National Bank in Brooklyn says: As to the failures of the National banks, we do not think that any more have transpired than any one would have predicted upon the establishment throughout the country of an entirely new financial system. In all cases of failure, the excellence of the law is seen in the security given to holders of bills, and this can not be overestimated as a means of preventing panics. Almost every person in the community is to a greater or less extent a creditor of some bank as a holder of its notes, and with a perfect assurance against loss, by the insolvency of the bank, it is not possible for a panic to take place. This portion of the law was taken from the banking laws of this State, and its value has been proved by many years' experience.

THE PEABODY FUND.—The trustees of the Peabody fund, having determined to apply the funds which the munificence of Mr. Peabody has placed in their hands in encouraging the introduction of the system of free schools into the Southern States, by supplementing the work of the people in the cause of popular education, the Rev. Mr. Amos, the Southern agent of that fund, is now on a visit to the North with the object of obtaining contributions in aid of the available means at the disposal of the trustees. Those means, though ample, are far from adequate to the wants of the population which it is sought to benefit. Hence the necessity for further help. Mr. Amos is furnished with testimonials of character from Generals Grant, Thomas and Howard, and several influential gentlemen in the North have already signified their warm approval of his mission.

MR. JOHNSON'S TREACHERY.

Interesting Statement of Hon. W. D. Kelley.

In a speech in Cincinnati last week, Hon. W. D. Kelley, of this State, spoke as follows:

My fellow-citizens, had Andrew Johnson been a true man, and not a tricky demagogue; had he been a patriot, and not a traitor, the Union would have been reconstructed, and the seats of Congress would have been filled ere this, and we would have been prepared to engage in discussing questions of banking, of tariff, and all the various concerns that relate to our daily life. But these are not the main questions to-day. We are to settle in the coming October elections in your State and in mine, and in New York, whether Grant surrendered to Lee and Sherman to Joe Johnston, or whether the Stars and Stripes were the emblem of the victorious army at the close of the last war. Believing in the patriotism of Mr. Johnson, I hastened to Washington immediately after the death of Abraham Lincoln, and while yet Mr. Johnson was residing under the hospitable roof of the Hon Samuel Hooper, of Boston, holding his executive sessions in a room of the Treasury building, ere the widow of our late lamented President had left the White House, and there, with a patriotic gentleman from Arkansas—a man who, though he had fallen into the rebellion soon dropped out, and had devoted his energies to promoting the Union cause, and I had a full and free conversation with Mr. Johnson. He then rejoiced that eight months would elapse, or nearly eight, before Congress would be called together. "In the meantime," said he, "I, as President, have nothing to do but hold that territory under military government, and see by the power of the army that the Union men, whether black or white, and the American citizen, whether of Northern or Southern birth, shall enjoy life in safety in all the conquered country. It is well that so much time must elapse," said he, "before Congress come together, for the establishment of governments over that country belongs to Congress, and in eight months the people of the two sections, intermingling with each other freely, will come to understand each other better than they ever have done, and we will all get to understand the colored people better than we do, and to know how far it would be safe to invest them with political power." I was rejoiced to hear such assurances as these. The President did me the honor to say that he spoke freely to me, because he wanted the people to understand that these were his views, and he thought I had opportunities for making them known. I had seen Hon. Charles Sumner the night before, and he told me that in a conversation which he had had with the President that day, Mr. Johnson had made a similar statement to him. Said Mr. Sumner: "Providence seems to have taken care of us and to have inspired Mr. Johnson with the truth beyond the measure in which I was permitted to hope he possessed it. He takes the view that will make the North safe for the present, and ultimately give us a harmonious country." As I left the executive room, having gone thither at Mr. Johnson's request from Mr. Hooper's house, he saying to General Grant, for he was with me: "The time has come when I must be in the executive room. Our conversation is not finished. Go over; and here is my card to the messenger. Be in the room awaiting me, that we may conclude it there." As I left the room, to which I had been thus confidently introduced by him, I met Gen. Carl Schurz, fresh from Gen. Sherman's army in North Carolina, with his stars bright on his shoulders, and the dust from Sherman's grand march to the sea yet upon his war-worn uniform. After the close of this interview—I met him but for a moment—said he: "The President is all right if he don't talk a little too strongly." Said he: "I am afraid he doth protest too much, and the very vehemence of his protestations makes me fear the fidelity of his statements." I met him the next day in Philadelphia, and in the presence of a gentleman in the Union League building, Gen. Schurz and I compared notes and found that Andrew Johnson had talked to him as to me, and to both as to Charles Sumner. A few days afterward I met General Steward L. Woodford and General Littlefield, the one fresh from the command of the City of Charleston, and the other from the City of Savannah, Georgia, and I learned from one of them that he had heard from a Georgia gentleman, who had been with the President and had an interview with him, that it was his purpose to overthrow the Radical Party and reorganize the National Democratic Party. And, said General Woodford, naming some gentlemen from Charleston, South Carolina, prominent rebels, "that is the statement Mr. Johnson has given to each and all of them, each separate and apart from the others." Just think of it! Talking to prominent Union men of the North—men whose voices could be heard—men in whom some portion of the people of the North confided—begging them, Radicals as they were, to go out and indorse him and proclaim him in harmony with the North, while negotiating with the bloodiest-handed rebels of the South to overthrow the party that had maintained the Union, and to build up the party that had brought on the war. I watched him for a little while, and what did I learn? Why, that he rejoiced that there were eight months before Congress assembled, that he might assume the powers of a dictator, and organize governments to suit himself over the eleven States in rebellion—that he should take the legislative power of the country into his hands, and say to the people dwelling upon 800,000 square miles of American territory, "You shall have constitutions, provided you make them to meet the wishes of King Andrew the First."

THE State of South Carolina is said to be bankrupt. The taxes which have been already paid into the State have been entirely expended, and the Treasury is empty. The executions now outstanding against delinquent tax payers, amount to something over $100,000. When the present tax bill was reported by the Committee on Ways and Means to the Legislature at its last session, it was estimated that the revenue it would raise would approximate to $600,000, but of this amount it has fallen short about $500,000.

REV. G. D. Chenowith, one of the Corresponding Secretaries of the Pennsylvania State Temperance Union, has traveled six thousand miles in its service; made one hundred and fifty speeches; procured three thousand six hundred and seventy-four names to the temperance pledge, and formed fourteen county organizations, auxiliary to the parent society.

A SAN FRANCISCO dispatch, dated the 11th, states that the Democrats will have a majority in the Legislature of twenty on joint ballot. A later dispatch, however, dated the 12th, says: "It is ascertained that the Democrats have eighteen majority in the House. On joint ballot the Union men will have two majority."

CHICAGO and St. Louis keep up the newspaper controversy about which is and will be the largest; which does and will do the most business, and kindred questions, which appear no nearer a settlement than when the discussion began.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

A few avaricious and unprincipled Flour Dealers in and around Pittsburgh, are now purchasing second-hand sacks, with our brand upon them, filling them with an inferior quality, and selling it as our Flour. Finding it difficult to procure the quantity of second-hand sacks, they are trying to get the sack maker here to make and print a lot for them.

To prevent this fraud, we are now pasting our sacks, and sealing them with a printed label, with name of firm and date of manufacture.

As we keep a register of the Flour made each day, and the kind of Wheat ground, we are at all times enabled to know the quality of Flour made.

Look Out for Short Weights.

Some of the dealers who are filling the sacks, are putting up short weights, in some cases equal to twenty pounds per barrel, making fully one dollar per barrel loss to consumer.

A REWARD OF $50

Will be paid for information that will lead to the detection and conviction of any person engaged in this fraudulent business.

SWORD'S
Self Tempering Steam Power
BRICK MACHINE,
MANUFACTURED BY THE
PITTSBURGH BRICK MACHINE AND BRICK MANUFACTURING CO.

This Machine takes the clay direct from the bank, (without the preparation, by soaking, necessary for "soft mud" machines), and tempers it thoroughly, pressing, in steel moulds, brick stiff enough to be packed up eight high in the yard as made. For cutting with the trowel, bearing hard usage, and making a strong, true wall, there are no better brick known. The cost of making them by this machine is from 95 cents to $1 10 per 1,000, according to the rates of wages. This we guarantee. The machine is built entirely of iron and steel; and in the best style for strength and permanent use in working clay. Apply for circulars, giving full information, at the office,

...Y MATTERS.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—A meeting of the Allegheny Temperance League will be held this evening in the Ohio Avenue M. E. Church, Fifth ward. Several addresses will be delivered, and important business will be introduced.

THE THOMPSON-MOFFITT CONSPIRACY CASE.—The second trial of Alexander Moffitt, for conspiracy, on oath of Isaac Thompson, will commence in the Quarter Sessions to-day. This case grows out of the famous Fayette county counterfeiting cases. It will be remembered that Moffitt was convicted at the last term, but got a new trial.

THE BOAT RACE ON SATURDAY.—The boat race which is announced to take place on Saturday next, between the Duquesne and Howard Clubs, is creating considerable interest in boating circles. The contest will be for a purse of five hundred dollars, each club having already put up a forfeit of fifty dollars. At the last race between the clubs, some weeks since, over the Allegheny course, the Duquesne was defeated, owing to Mr. John Fisher being seized with cramps; but the Howard, in order to settle the matter definitely, agreed to give the rival crew an opportunity to redeem itself. Both crews are in active training, and although not professional oarsmen, will labor hard for success.

Another Charge of Libel Against J. B. O'Neill.

It will be remembered that the charge of libel preferred by Daniel O'Neill against James B. O'Neill, fell to the ground, for the reason that no proof could be obtained that he had procured the publication in the Leader. Indeed, it was in evidence that J. B. O'Neill did not procure its publication in that paper. Daniel O'Neill yesterday preferred another charge against J. B. O'Neill, before Alderman Strain, alleging that he had procured the publication in the Evening Chronicle, on the 25th of April last. The information sets forth that "the said defendant, Jas. B. O'Neill, unlawfully and maliciously wrote and published, or caused to be written or published, and concerning this deponent, a false and malicious libel, and therein charged (among other things) that this deponent was 'a well known public libeler, whose life-long business has been that of culminating his (my) fellow men for money,' and which said false and malicious libel and writing, so as aforesaid published, contained other false and malicious matter, which will be produced and exhibited in this case, which said libel and libelous matter tends to subject and did subject this deponent to public hatred, contempt and ridicule."

A warrant was issued, and the accused will appear and enter bail when he becomes aware that the charge has been made.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

Owing to the illness of Judge Stowe, who had been presiding in this Court, Judge Sterrett was obliged to discontinue the trial list in the Common Pleas, and preside in the Quarter Sessions.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR SELLING.

William Pooler, of Elizabeth township, was indicted for selling liquor without license, on oath of the constable of that district. He plead guilty to the accusation, but alleged that he had not knowingly violated the law. He kept a grocery store, and in the way of business had traded for a few bottles of porter, which he innocently sold, not knowing that he was doing anything wrong. The Court remarked that he had no right to sell a single bottle, without first having obtained a license. The defendant was then sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars, the lowest penalty provided by law.

WIFE BEATING AND ABANDONMENT.

John S. Smith, Justice of the Peace, of Etna, plead nolle contendere to a charge of assault and battery, preferred by his wife. He was also charged with having abandoned his wife, and refused to contribute to her support. It appears that the prosecutrix is the second wife of the defendant, and the trouble arose from alleged bad treatment of his children by the former wife. Witnesses were called and testified that Smith had forcibly put his wife out of the house, striking and kicking her, and knocking her down. She had a child in her arms at the time. This was early in May last. He ordered her to leave and never show herself in the house again. Mrs. Smith testified that he had beaten and abused her on other occasions. On the assault and battery charge the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of forty dollars and costs. The charge of abandonment was also sustained, and the Court ordered Smith to give bond for the payment of the sum of twelve dollars per month for the support of his wife and child.

PRESENTMENT AGAINST BAWDY HOUSES.

The Grand Jury appeared and made a special presentment against the keepers of four bawdy houses, located in different parts of the city. The names of the streets, and number of the houses are given in the presentment, together with the names of the keepers, and the Court directed the Assistant District Attorney to prepare and lay before the Grand Jury bills of indictment against the persons named.

A SINGULAR SURETY CASE.

Elizabeth Burns, an aged resident of Finley township, was arraigned on a charge of having threatened to kill Mary A. Davis, or burn her property. This threat was made on the 14th of August, as alleged. Singularly enough, the house of the prosecutrix, Mrs. Davis, who is a next neighbor of Elizabeth Burns, caught fire the same day and was destroyed. The circumstances were claimed to be suspicious, and the old lady was arrested and held to answer. A large number of witnesses were called for the defense, who testified that the character of Mrs. Davis, for truth and veracity, was not good, and that they would not believe her on oath. Other evidence was given, tending to show that Elizabeth Burns could not have had any agency in the destruction of Mrs. Davis' house. The Court decided that the case had not been satisfactorily made out, and ordered the prosecutrix to pay costs.

LARCENY BY A SERVANT GIRL.

Ellen Henderson, a young girl, was put on trial for having stolen a number of dresses, a shawl, skirts, a pair of gaiters, and other articles of wearing apparel, the property of Mrs. Margery Hanlin, wife of James S. Hanlin, a resident of Walnut street, in the Fifth ward. Mrs. Hanlin testified that the girl was in her employ, as a servant, in July last, and that the articles were all missed on the same day—the girl leaving at the same time. In about two weeks afterwards the girl was arrested by officer Bell, and had on one of the stolen dresses and the gaiters belonging to Mrs. Hanlin. The girl subsequently sent a note to officer Bell, telling him where the balance of the goods could be found. The case was a very clear one, and the jury found a verdict of guilty. This is the second time the girl has been arrested for larceny in this Court, and Judge Sterrett, thinking the influences of the county jail would be bad, sentenced her to one year in the penitentiary.

LARCENY OF A SHAWL.

Joseph Redgate was charged with the larceny of a lady's shawl, valued at ten dollars, the property of Dr. J. Robinson, at Lawrenceville. The doctor testified that he had bought the shawl, and gave it to his wife. As soon as it was missed he started in pursuit of the prisoner, who was suspected of the larceny, and found the article in his possession, at the tavern of Joseph Hart. The accused had the shawl secreted under his coat, and the Doctor took him at once before Justice Fancey, who had him committed for trial. The defense was that the accused was under the influence of liquor at the time, and did not know what he was about. The jury found a verdict of guilty. Sentence deferred until Saturday.

HORSE STEALING.

Jesse C. Brown, alias Campbell, alias Walker, was arraigned on a charge of having stolen a mare, valued at one hundred and fifty dollars, the property of John Barr, a resident of Armstrong county. Mr. Barr testified that the animal was in pasture on the evening of the 27th of August, and was missed the following morning. He next saw the mare in the possession of Mr. Wm. Armstrong, of this county, four or five days after she had been stolen. He identified the prisoner as having been seen in the neighborhood a short time before. Mr. Jackson, a neighbor of Mr. Barr, testified to having lost a saddle, bridle and army blanket, at the same time Barr's mare was stolen. He recovered his saddle in Lawrenceville, this county. The prisoner took dinner at the house of the father of the witness, on the day preceding the larceny. Mr. Wm. Armstrong testified that he lived in Wilkins township, this county; knew the defendant; he came to the house of the witness on the 28th of August, and traded the mare to his father for a horse; he claimed to have raised the animal, and praised her good qualities. The saddle, bridle and blanket went with the horse. Mr. Barr came along on the following Sunday, claimed the mare, and took possession of her. Stephen Deitrich testified that he lived in Lawrenceville; that he knew the defendant; saw him selling the horse which he had traded for the mare to Mr. Rowe; for seventy-five dollars; Mr. Jackson was around about that time and claimed the saddle as his property. Mr. Rowe was called and testified to the transaction with the defendant.

The defence called one witness to prove the good character of the accused, and then put in a plea of guilty, claiming some consideration for mercy on the ground that the defendant had served five years in the army.

Judge Sterrett remarked that the services of the prisoner in the army offered no offset to the offense of horse stealing, and the plea for mercy on that ground would not have the slightest weight whatever. The man who could come out of the army and engage in the business of horse stealing, had probably not entered the service from any good or patriotic motives. The defendant was then sentenced to pay a fine of two hundred dollars, and undergo an imprisonment of six years in the Penitentiary.

Court adjourned until ten this morning.

PITTSBURGH FEMALE COLLEGE.—While the depression in the business world has had an unfortunate effect upon educational institutions both in the East and West, we feel considerable pride in the fact that the high character of the Pittsburgh Female College, of which the Rev. Dr. Pershing is the President, has opened for the fall term with a degree of prosperity which at once shows that its value and importance is greatly esteemed, not only by ourselves, but also in distant places. The attendance this term is larger than ever, and many are yet to enter so that the term promises to be among the most prosperous in the history of the institution. We need not say it is deserving, for all who have ever heard of this college and its great usefulness must feel it, but we do say that no school offers more desirable facilities for a thorough education, and we commend it with great cheerfulness.

I certify that I had been afflicted with a deafness and a constant disagreeable buzzing noise and sounds in my ear. When I applied to Dr. Aborn last Saturday I was so deaf that I could not hear a watch tick. After using his treatment for four days I find that I am relieved of noises and sounds, and can hear the ticking of a watch: I am seventy-four years of age.

A Gentleman Blind for two Years Sight Restored Within Two Weeks.

DR. ABORN, No. 134 Smithfield street—Dear Sir: For the benefit of all persons suffering from diseases of the eye, I beg leave to hand you the following sworn statement of facts bearing upon my case, and trust that you may give it the publicity it deserves, as it may prove of vast service to many who are now suffering as I have done:

Last July two years, my eyes became diseased from granulated lids, which produced a painful disease of the cornea, and totally destroyed the sight of my left eye, and was fast weakening and destroying the vision of the right one. I could hardly see to walk, and suffered the most excruciating torment and pain. In vain hope of cure I visited Philadelphia, and placed myself under the care of the distinguished surgeons in charge of the Philadelphia Eye and Ear Hospital, where I remained, at a cost of some four hundred dollars, for the period of several months. The treatment received previously was terribly severe, subjecting my eyes to scarification, blistering, and other painful inflictions, and at the hospital, although the system was mild, it failed to have any beneficial effect towards curing me. I also underwent very severe treatment at the hands of amateur surgeons, each of whom had different applications and eye waters to recommend, till dispairing of ever being cured, I had lost all hope of ever being able again to see. Being referred to Dr. Aborn, by a gentleman under his treatment, I resolved to place myself under his charge. Two weeks ago I visited his office, made known my case, and received his treatment, which was mild to an extreme degree. To-day my eyes are fully restored to usefulness. I have regained my sight, and can see type of the smallest character without difficulty. The return of the vision is complete, and was accomplished in but two weeks' time, and while truly thankful to Dr. Aborn, I cheerfully recommend him to all persons suffering with diseases of the eye.

Another Remarkable and Speedy Recovery.

The following additional testimony to the efficacy of Dr. Aborn's treatment has been handed us for publication:

I have been afflicted with an affection of the throat and chest and pain in the side, accompanied by a constant cough, for eighteen months. My friends believed that I had the consumption, and acting upon the advice of one of them I applied to Dr. Aborn three weeks ago, and placed myself under his care. I gradually grew better, and am to-day quite restored to health and vigor. The cure has been a remarkable one, and I take pleasure in recommending other sufferers to call at once upon Dr. Aborn.

Wear and Tear.

When the constitution is weak and the system depressed by the wear and tear of business life, which makes such tremendous drafts upon the body and mind, unless some healthful and strengthening tonic is resorted to, prostration will ensue, and disease creep unawares upon the victim of negligence. But if which is a genial and purely vegetable stimulant, be timely administered, the organization will resist and baffle the veins of epidemic and changes of temperature incidental to this season of the year, which disorder the nerves of the feeble.

There is an active and permanent vitality in this remedy, which will prove of great benefit to the broken down and shattered constitution. It is the only tonic of which the stimulating principle is perfectly pure. Its basis is the essential principle of sound rye, which is admitted by analytical chemists to be the most harmless of stimulants, and this fluid is refined from crudities which belong to it as it comes from the manufacturer. The other ingredients are composed of medicinal plants and herbs, and contain not one harmful element in all their composition.

—In the public funds to-day, says the New York Bulletin, busines has been on a very moderate scale. The speculative demand has nearly ceased. The investment inquiry has been unusually meagre. All the funded obligations have been in rather better supply, and in a few instances pressed for sale to the further slight depression of prices. Seven-thirty notes have been in much less request and quoted decidedly heavy. Government has not been in the market as a purchaser for some days past. To-day, under the official notice, it withdraws the privilege of conversion on the outstanding balance (some four or five millions) of the first series of the notes, and will pay off in cash this small balance.

—In the New York markets for produce, merchandise and dry goods, the principal activity has been among the dry goods jobbers and dealers in breadstuffs. The dry goods market, though somewhat irregular on account of the decline in cotton, has shown a large business, with a prospect of its continuance. Flour and grain have been somewhat excited under various rumors of receipts falling off, and the supply not being as large as has been expected. The receipts at lake ports, however, continue large, and except for the fact that the country has been bare of flour, the influence of the crop would be much more felt in this market.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
TUESDAY, September 17, 1867.

BUSINESS.—The crude market yesterday was dull, owners being inclined to hold off. The sales were limited and did not exceed 2,000 bbls. all told. The rates were the same as those current for some days past. The rates for all 1867 were 12@12½c, according to option. Dispatches from Oil City report a dull market, with buyers and sellers apart in their views. No sales. The receipts were 502 bbls. The sales foot up to even 2,000 bbls. Allegheny, bulk, as follows: 1,500 bbls. all 1867 delivery, S O, 12c; 500 bbls do, bulk, all 1867, B. O. at 12½c. The principal portion of the transactions for some time past were resales of previous contracts, the seller obtaining the difference in cash. The fact is, the amount of oil for sale at the present time is small.

REFINED OIL.—The market yesterday exhibited more firmness; prices ranged a shade higher, commencing with the present month and ending with February, 1868. On Saturday standard white sold for September delivery, Philadelphia, at 32c. Yesterday the lowest sale recorded was at 32½@33½c, the amount sold being even 6000 bbls, as follows, all standard white, Philadelphia delivery:

500 bbls September, 32½c; 500 bbls do September, 32¾c. Sales 2,500 bbls, as follows: 500 bbls October, 33c; 500 bbls November, 33c; 500 bbls December 33c; 500 bbls January, 1868, at 33c, and 500 bbls February do, 33c. Sales 1000 bbls do October, 33¼c. Sales of 1,500 bbls, as follows: 500 bbls November, 33¼c; 500 bbls do December, 33½c, and 500 bbls January, 1868, at 33½c.

BREADSTUFFS.

The New York market, as we learn from the New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle, of Saturday last, has been quite active, for all descriptions, during the past week, with wide variations in prices. Flour has come forward less freely, and with an improving demand prices have stiffened up 50c@$1 ₱ bbl. A scarcity is felt in the lower grades, and these have advanced most; but the finer qualities have also strengthened from various causes. But the prospects are good for more liberal supplies of the lower grades, and at the close the demand was more freely met.

Wheat still arrives sparingly—not equal to the wants of the market—but spring has been freely offered for arrival, and has sold largely at $2 12@2 20 for No. 3 and No. 2, closing at $2 12@2 15 for No. 2, according to distance. Winter wheat has advanced 15c ₱ bushel, being scarce and in demand, closing quiet. The more pressing orders of the week have been for export to France but there has also been some business done for Great Britain; and with the advance in flour local millers have operated more freely. Corn advanced to $1 25 on Wednesday last, but has since declined. Oats have come forward more freely and declined, but closed active and firm. Rye has sold lower, but a distilling and local demand holds it above the views of shippers. Barley and malt are drooping.

We quote shipping round hoop Ohio flour at $10 25@10 75; extra Western, common to good, $9 50@12 00, and double extra Western and St. Louis, $12 25@14 25. Chicago spring wheat, ₱ bushel $2 05@2 25; Milwaukee club $2 05@2 25; red winter $2 30@2 40; amber $2 47@2 50, and white $2 50@2 62 ₱ bushel. Western mixed corn $1 18@1 21; Western yellow corn $1 20@1 21 ₱ bush. Rye $1 35@1 50. Oats, Western cargoes, 64@68c ₱ bush.

The Cotton Crop.

From the New York Commercial and Financial Chronicle, of Saturday, we learn that during the past week more favorable advices, from all points, have been received in regard to the cotton crop. As to the Atlantic States less is heard of rust and worms on the low lands, and on the high lands the crop is said to be developing very satisfactorily. From Louisiana and Texas the accounts are also most cheering. The hot weather has prevented the worm doing as much damage as was anticipated, and there is a more hopeful feeling among the planters. Some sections of those States have certainly suffered severely, but with good fall weather and late frosts, a considerable portion of the damage will be repaired.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
MONDAY EVENING, September 16, 1867.

Our dealers are handling flour on very small margins, as the advance has not been made here accordingly. Holders are firm at $11 25@11 50 for winter; and $10 25@10 50 for spring. The city mills are selling choice sack flour at the rate of $11 80 ₱ bbl, and second quality at $11 30 ₱ bbl.

GRAIN—Receipts of all kinds of grain are falling off, with a rather active market. Choice winter wheat may be quoted at $2 20@2 25. Sales reported of 2 cars rye at $1 20, and small lots at $1 25 ₱ bush. Sale of 300 bush oats, at the depot, at 60c; 1 car, F. O. B., at 60c, and several lots from store at 60@62c ₱ bush. WOOL.

NEW YORK.

We learn from the Economist that the market is not active nor are prices very firm, although, generally speaking, prices are firmer; that is the number are sensibly diminished whose circumstances are such as to compel them to accept very low prices, and there are very few who are so very foolish as to believe that the bottom has fallen out, and that wool will never reach it but will continue to drop till there is nothing left; and there it will remain. Occasionally a holder of wool is found who appears to be completely demoralized and is ready to accept any offer. If matters not what, rather than hold for another season. Wool has been sold very low in order to meet the condition of the woolen market, and few purchasers of wool will get their money back; but this is no fault of commission men; in many cases they have done all they could; some have not done as well as they might. But it does seem somewhat strange that wool should have been so bought that a loss is the consequence; because when the season opened the woolen business was as low as it could possibly be.

Few factories have large stocks of wool. The Salisbury Mills have probably the largest stock of wool on hand of any manufacturing establishment in the United States, they bought the largest in the country of any other firm. It is currently reported that McInness, of the firm of Tyler, McInness & Co., Boston, bought them over a million pounds. While the Manchester Print Works, which in other years have been large buyers in the country, have yet bought none, and the Pacific Mills Company have bought sparingly both in country and market. There are very few firms who have got two months' stock of wool on hand, many who have not more than one month. The effect of this will be to keep a steady market, if not an excited one. Fine wool, it is expected, will be in better demand in a few weeks; a good many manufacturers are about changing their works to the production of fine goods; manufacturers have been led into the same error they fell into a year ago, being tempted by the low price at which inferior wools were sold to make low goods, and again the market is overstocked with the poorer class of goods, while there is a scarcity of the best class; this the importers are supplying with but little competition. The great trouble with our manufacturers is, that what one does successfully, all attempt; so that of a certain description of goods we have always a plethora, and of other descriptions a great want, and it is this in some measure which keeps trade in a very depressed state. Still the poor goods, when it is active for the best descriptions.

Western wools and the lower grades of other States are pressed upon the market, while a good degree of confidence is felt in the finer grades, and dealers are not disposed to make concessions on these, but feel that they will be wanted at better rates than are now ruling. As yet, however, the prospects for such a result are very slight. The demand for goods is not so great as to induce manufacturers to increase production; there still continues a large amount of machinery inactive.

The Waterford strike still continues, and the owners appear to prefer that the factories should remain idle rather than increase the cost of production. For such a course there is certainly no object at the present price of goods. For it is the extreme price of production, with no chance at the present for reducing the price of labor only by bringing starvation to the laborer, that so depresses the price of wool.

Pulled wool is very slow of sale in the present state of depression in the fleece market. Super is more active than extra, as a large amount has been used for black cassimeres, and thus diminishing the cost of production. Canada combing is entirely neglected, and a large amount is still in Canada or gone to England, little having arrived in the States yet.

Foreign wool is very quiet under the present state of the market for domestic wool.

The sales for the week include about 250,000 lbs fleece, ranging from 42@60c, except picklock, which commands fancy prices; 45,000 lbs pulled, 34@42c; 30,000 lbs Californian; 4@45c; for old extra, 40c for new super, 45@47c for super; Texas is not active, and lower at 28@30c for best lots, and 15@20c for low descriptions. California super 35@39c for spring clip, free of burs. 33@35c for fall do do; burry lots 10@20c per lb less. 19,000 lbs Mexican at 23@21c, 8,000 lbs camel's hair, 27c.

HOPS.

NEW YORK.

From the circular of McKimmel Wells we learn that since June 29th the market has undergone no very important changes. Although the demand during July and August was extremely small, the stock was reduced to a point below that of any previous year within the memory of the oldest dealers. Our predictions that the prices of last year's yield would advance before the advent of the new crop, are not verified. Our miscalculation can only be accounted for by the fact of the unprecedented small demand from local brewers, many of whom accumulated large stocks of beer, which could not be sold during the cold season of April and May. With no material reduction in the stock of beer up to the present time, brewers will not be likely to require their full supply of hops until such stock is reduced. Meantime the new crop is beginning to arrive, and will be in full supply in a few weeks. Samples of the new growth have arrived, some of which in quality will compare favorably with the best ever received at this market. Prices of the new crop cannot be established with any degree of accuracy until samples from the different sections have been placed in the market, and compared with the several qualities which the country produces. We quote as yet: no sales of the new crop have come forward to the trade yet for cash—first hands—and none below 65c ₱ lb. The crop of the entire country is estimated at 100,000 bales, in quantity to be equal in value to about 75,000 bales of good hops. The following are the estimates:

	Common.	Good.	Total bales
New York	15,000	35,000	50,000
Wisconsin	[illegible]	20,000	20,000
Eastern	[illegible]	5,000	10,000
Michigan	3,500	1,500	5,000
Other States	3,000	2,000	5,000
Total	25,000	75,000	100,000

The consumption of hops in this country is estimated at 80,000 to 90,000 bales.

Foreign Markets.—Our private advices just received from the London market, down to the 31st of August last, insinuate a general tendency to a decline in prices, and assure us that in consequence of a quiet market, prices must at present be considered as only nominal. In good grounds in every locality the recent favorable weather has materially improved the prospects of the crop, but it does not seem to have benefited the localities already infested with mould. From the same source we derive the information that the Continental reports continue promising. Bavaria and Bohemia are making excellent progress, and the Alost district of Belgium, from which so little was expected a short time since, is now pushing on in the right direction. A few small lots of new Bavarians of first class quality, have realized from £15 to £15 ₱ cwt.

Prices Current of Hops in the New York Market.—New York State, common to fair, new, 40@45c; New York State, good to prime, new, 50@55c; New York State, choice to fancy, new, 60@65c; Eastern, common to prime, new, 40@50c; Michigans, common to prime, new, 45@60c; Wisconsins, prime to fancy, new, 55@70c; Yearlings, of all grades, 20@35c; Old Olds, 10@30c ₱ lb.

The Otsego (N. Y.) Republican says that at a recent inspection of the hop growing section of that State, Canada, Michigan and Wisconsin, by a competent examiner, leads to the opinion that New York, Michigan and Canada will produce less than half a crop per acre, and three-fourths of those harvested will be of a poor quality, while Wisconsin will give a large crop of fine quality. A great many fields in this State have been ruined by the hop insect. One of the largest growers in Canada, having forty acres under cultivation, does not expect to harvest anything. The tornado of July 4th destroyed one or two hundred acres of hops in Madison county, and damaged badly many other yards. Still, one thing is not to be lost sight of, that is the increase of average in all the hop growing sections of the country is large, and, therefore, half a crop, or even less, will give us a larger amount than very many who consider themselves well informed think probable or even possible.

The Canadian Monetary Times says the yield in England and in the principal hop growing districts of the United States will be, it is supposed, below the average. The State of Wisconsin, however, will produce a large crop. In Canada the crop will also be deficient, owing to the ravages of the louse and the dryness of the weather. The first receipts of the new crop are to hand, and the market is firm for the reasons just stated.

IRON.

PORTSMOUTH, OHIO.

There has been very little or no change in prices of iron, says the Republican. Indeed iron men are very reticent of the legitimate transactions in their trade.

An iron boat is now lying at the wharf ready to depart for the ports below. It is loaded with about 150 tons of pig iron.

Receipts on the railroad not quite so large as last week, say 375 tons; shipments, say 300 tons, with sales to our own mills and foundries.

IRONTON, O.

The Ironton Journal says the demand for No. 1 cold blast car wheel pig is good and we quote an advance to $62, at the landing. Hot blast mill is still held at $43@46, but ranges nearer the former figure. Foundry is in moderate demand at $46@48. Bar Iron is dull with an active demand for Hoop at 4½c for rates. Nails are in brisk demand, with orders in advance of supply at $6 ₱ 100 for 10s. The Belfont Furnaces are being pushed, and the walls of the houses are up. The Monitor Iron Works, John Peters, proprietor, are being pushed forward rapidly. Already there are a number of buildings erected, and stocks of ore are accumulating on the grounds. Tyler Bros. & Co. are turning out the best of solid Eye Planters' Hoe. The Ironton rolling mills are, at present, idle, but it is hoped will be going again in a few days. The Lawrence rolling mills are running full force. The machine shops and foundries are all active.

Philadelphia Boot and Shoe Market.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: Business continues to improve; a larger number of buyers have come into the market during the past three days from the South and West, and the stores of the jobbers and the salesrooms of the manufacturers have a more busy aspect. We notice goods marked for towns in Texas, South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kansas, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and trade, although not at its height, is well opened, and gives promise of good results.

Hat Trade.

On Friday last, at James H. Prentice's trade sale of hats, at the warehouse in Brooklyn, 350 cases were sold. The attendance and the bidding was good, and the feeling exhibited by the buyers was favorable to an active state of trade and good prices. Wool hats, men's plain, $10 12 to $11; men's fancy, $8 50 to $17 75; youths' fancy, $8 50 to $10 50; boys' plain, $7 12 to $8 25; children's plain and fancy, $6 75 to $11 75. Cashmere, men's plain, $15 to $27; men's fancy, $23 to $30 50. Black beaver and otter brush, $10 75, $28 75 to $39.

The Crops in Russia.

Accounts from all parts of Russia concur in stating that the year 1867 will be noted as a year of plenty. The crops of hemp, wheat, millet and oats are in a prosperous condition. An unusually large crop of beet root is expected. The liberated serfs of Russia are experiencing the difficulty of farming without capital. The rent of one year is often paid out of the next year's crop.

The Express says the reported cotton failures in Liverpool to-day had a tendency to stiffen prices. It appears some heavy firms at Liverpool are finding it difficult to meet their renewed obligations now falling due, and failures in the present condition of the market abroad, it is feared, will be the result.

RIVER TELEGRAMS.

Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, September 16.—River falling, with twenty-seven inches water in the canal.

RIVER NEWS.

THE RIVER AND MATTERS ALONG THE WHARF.—The weather remains very pleasant, trade, however, on the landing was dull, business being neglected. Above the bridge the trade was active. The light water boats Uncle Sam, Monitor and Traveler will have the present week all to themselves. On Saturday the locks will be completed and the large boats will resume their regular trips on Saturday next. This can be relied on, as we have the following official notice:

OFFICIAL.—Lock No. 3 will be completed and navigation resumed on Saturday with the regular boats.

W. J. MOORHEAD,
Cargo Inspector Monongahela Nav. Co.

This will be good news to the inhabitants of the Monongahela Valley who have been suffering for the want of a daily communication with Pittsburgh.

PASSING AWAY.—Within a very short period the following noted steamboat commanders have left us for the land of spirits: Capt. Charles Stone of Beaver, Pa., Capt. Wm. McClain, of Portsmouth, O., and Capt. J. W. Rowland, of St. Louis, Mo. As commanders they stood at the head of the profession—as gentlemen they had no superiors.

THE Ida Rees has been chartered by the Cincinnati Mail Company.

THE total receipts from wharfage at Evansville for the last year were $11,889 79, while the amount of expenditures was over $20,000.

MEMPHIS.—In order to guard against the yellow fever, which is raging in New Orleans, the Mayor has judiciously established a quarantine at President's Island. Upward-bound boats will not be permitted to land at the wharf until examined.

THE St. Paul Press says of the snag which sunk the Burlington: "River men think it must have come down during the late flood, as none have hitherto been known at the point where this accident is said to have occurred."

LOW WATER IN THE ARKANSAS RIVER.—The Arkansas is falling, with twenty-eight inches in the channel. The Princess, from St. Louis, bound for Little Rock, was unable to get up on account of low water. She took her freight to Duvall's Bluff, and shipped it by rail to Little Rock.

REMOVING A WRECK.—The St. Paul Press says: When the Montana came up, Capt. Stoughton was engaged in removing the wreck of the Northern Light. This was being done by exploding powder blasts in the wreck, which threw water and fragments of the wreck to a considerable height. It will all be out of the river in a short time.

THE New Orleans Picayune, this complains: Yesterday was decidedly the dullest Saturday we have noticed this summer; really there was next to nothing doing, and several of the boats had to lay over till Monday, in order to complete lots of freight that could not be discharged from the ships, as the weather was so showery.

THE Cincinnati Gazette has the following on the situation:

Business is as good as the packets desire, while transient boats have not seen worse times this season.

The river is rising. By the Water Works report it had gained six inches in the twelve hours preceding six o'clock last evening. We have conflicting reports of the stage of water both above and below us. We may, however, say that there are 30 inches large at Four Mile, and three feet at Rising Sun and Medoc.

We take the following from the Dubuque Times of Wednesday:

A CANOE VOYAGE.—Mr. Chassaince, a young gentleman with his sister and another young lady, arrived at Galena in a skiff, from St. Paul, having accomplished the whole distance of over four hundred miles in nine days. The young ladies rowed the skiff the whole way, passing through Lake Pepin in the night. The voyage was a hard one, and the party are pretty thoroughly sunburned. The party was detained twice on the way from fatigue. So says the Gazette.

BUSINESS ON THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI.—The St. Louis Democrat has the following:

The Davenport transacted a large business along the upper rivers on her way to St. Paul, and will be obliged to refuse freight on her way down. The Minnesota took out of Galena 2,000 sacks oats and a lot of bacon, and refused much other freight. Missouri River boats, out and in, get all the freight they can carry, and all the flats, and business is very lively. The Sheridan, Dubuque and the McPike, coming down, lay eight or ten hours at the mouth of the Illinois. The Lucy Bertram was not expected to be out at 6 P. M.

THE MOUNTAIN BOATS.—Special dispatches dated St. Joseph, Mo., September 11, say:

The Moorehead arrived this morning from Fort Buford. Her news from the Upper Missouri is unimportant.

The Marietta, from Pittsburgh, arrived here this evening, bound for Omaha, where the is engaged to carry freight for the Union Pacific Railroad.

The Will Waverly and Octavia are reported to be still aground.

The Mountaineer, from Buford passed down this morning, and the St. Joseph and Marietta came up. The Glasgow has been compelled to double trip it above Nebraska City.

BUSINESS AT ST. PAUL.—Business on the levee at St. Paul is exceedingly brisk. No less than four large steamboats lay at the levee at the same time Friday receiving and discharging freight, besides several smaller ones. The Sheridan came up early in the morning with an unusually large freight, amounting in all to 275 tons. She towed up a heavily laden barge from Dubuque, and was about twelve hours behind time all the way, on account of being delayed that length of time in starting. She is within twenty miles of the city a good portion of the night, but could not come up on account of the fog. At half-past ten she left crowded with passengers and her band playing. This is the last trip of the Sheridan this season. She will hereafter run between Winona and LaCrosse. Her place will be filled by the City of St. Paul.

PROSPECTUS.

A number of the leading Bankers and Merchants of New York, in consideration of the great success which has attended many of the Charitable Presentation Entertainments of the day, have formed themselves into a company, with the view of inaugurating an enterprise which, while it shall return them a fair profit, shall offer greater advantages to ticket-purchasers than any yet presented; and which being conducted upon a perfectly legitimate and business basis, shall be free from those objectionable features which have characterized many of these enterprises.

To this end they have consigned the sale of tickets, and the registering the same, to Clark, Webster & Co., Bankers and Managers, No. 62 Broadway, New York, who will keep the records in their custody until the day of the Grand Presentation Entertainment, when they will be handed over to a committee selected by the audience to make an impartial distribution of presents.

A reference to the number of presents and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince even the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the Commercial and Financial standing of the Company, and the Managers and Bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guaranty of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with the scheme will be conducted, and that the interests of ticket-holders will be most strictly watched over and guarded. In fact, it is the desire of the Managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest.
